

BIRD-SHOT

(Story)

Setting: Middle of the desert, far from a town.

ACT I:

(Introduction to the game and our protagonist, Marlon Redwood)

(Text at the beginning of the game)

You are Marlon Redwood. You've been through it all. Robberies, gun for hire, duels, arson and more. This story isn't about any of those events. You left everything behind and are now alone. The only thing giving you meaning in life... is hunting. Shoot down as many birds as you can.

(Cut to a shot of Marlon's holding his revolver)

Marlon: Betsy... you're all I have left. Bless me with your strength.

(Shot of Marlon aiming down his revolver "Betsy")

Marlon: Aim (Mouse Movement)... fire (Left click)... cock the hammer (Right click)... and if I am out, put as many bullets as I can into the cylinder (Press R repeatedly)...

(Transition into shooting stage)

ACT II:

(Introduction to the character (Winnie C. Lester) and his gimmick)

(Shot of Marlon holstering his Betsy)

Marlon: That's enough for today, it's getting dark.

Winnie: HEY!!!

Marlon: Is someone there?

Winnie: HEY CRACKSHOT!!!

(Marlon quickdraws his revolver and points behind him.)

Marlon: Who's there? What do you want with me, huh?

Winnie: That's some pretty fancy shooting for an elder, huh?

(Marlon has a surprised look on his face)

Marlon: What the... what are you?

(Shot revealing Winnie the Gunhead)

Winnie: What am I? What am I?? I am a gunhead! Hey... watch this and I'll blow your puny mind!

(Winnie shoots one shot from his Gunhead)

Winnie: See that? I can just think of shooting and BAM! You're 6 feet under!

(Marlon looks at him, he's unimpressed)

Marlon: Anything else?

(Winnie reveals his arms. They are buff if you're wondering)

Winnie: I am not done yet... see these arms? I can kill a horse with these guns!

Marlon: Alright...

Winnie: Hey! Don't talk and just watch Mr Winnie C. Lester do better hunting than your skinny cactus arms!

(Transition to shooting stage)

ACT III:

(Duel between Marlon and Winnie, amount of birds shot by both characters effects how this act plays out.)

(If Winnie did good.)

(Shot of Marlon sitting, he looks impressed)

Marlon: That was some fancy shooting. You're pretty good, Winnie. Bu-

(Zoom out, both Marlon and Winnie are on screen. Winnie is smiling.)

Winnie: Do you think this ego was for nothing?

Marlon: But it's not enough.

Winnie: What...? Need more of a showcase of my power?

(Marlon stands up and faces Winnie)

Marlon: To prove yourself, how about having a hunting match. The rules are-

Winnie: Let me guess... 5 rounds, no turns, whoever shoots down birds wins?

Marlon: You're pretty sharp, youngster.

Winnie: Wouldn't be here today without my wit.

(Transition to shooting stage)

(If Winnie did bad.)

(Shot of Marlon sitting down, he's holding in a laugh)

Marlon: Wow.

Marlon: I am going home.

(Zoom out shot, Winnie is pissed off. Marlon is walking away.)

Winnie: S-Shut up! Wait! Wait a damn minute!

(Marlon is looks back with a smirk)

Marlon: This better be good, you've already wasted enough of my time.

Winnie: How about a hunting match. One on One! 5 Rounds, no turns, whoever hunts down the most birds wins!

(Marlon looks down)

Marlon: ...

(Marlon sighs)

Marlon: Whatever you say, Winnie. I got nothing better to do with my life anyway.

(Transition to shooting stage)

(If Marlon Wins)

(Close up shot of Marlon smiling)

Marlon: Still got it.

Winnie: ...

(Shot of Marlon looking at Winnie. Winnie is sitting down. Winnie is pissed.)

Marlon: You know you remind me of someone... he'd still be here if he had any better aim than you.

Winnie: It-It's not that bad!

Marlon: How about I tell you his story, so that maybe you can learn a lesson or two from him?

(Winnie looks down in shame, he's on his knees.)

Winnie: ...

(Winnie looks up at him)

Winnie: Are you paying?

Marlon: If it'll make you listen.

Winnie: Deal.

(Cue credits)

(If Winnie wins)

(Shot of Winnie pointing at himself, Marlon is staring at his revolver)

Winnie: And to no one's surprise... I win!

Marlon: ...

(Shot of Winnie looking back at Marlon)

Winnie: Feel that hot air? That's the air of failure, old timer. What are you going to do?

(Marlton brings out his gun and aims at his chest. Winnie brings his arms out.)

Winnie: Still got the strength to even pull the trigger, old man? Go ahead. Do it.

(Close up of Marlton's finger on the trigger, he's squeezing it.)

Marlton: ...

(Marlton puts his gun back in his holster)

Marlton: No point, I won't get any gratification.

(Winnie looks at him confused)

Winnie: What do you mean, geezer?

(Marlton smirks)

Marlton: Your attitude. It's gonna get you killed. I'd know.

(Winnie scoffs)

Winnie: I am still standing, aren't I?

(Marlton has a stern expression on his face)

Marlton: Just go, Winnie.

(Marlton walks away)

(Winnie shrugs)

Winnie: I've got nothing else to prove.

(Winnie walks away)

(Cue credits)